

moodleMoot Mishima

June 12th & 13th, 2010

Hosted by the English Language Program at the Nihon University College of International Relations

The English Language Program at the Nihon University College of International Relations is proud to announce it will be hosting its first ever MoodleMoot.

The conference will be a venue for learning and sharing information and research about Moodle use in educational settings. Anyone interested in Moodle is welcome to come and learn about different methods of using Moodle in classrooms, see showcases of Moodle courses, and listen to a variety of presentations related to the use of Moodle in program administration, testing, learning, and teaching. There will also be an area where publishers will be showcasing their latest offerings related to CALL, the Internet, and online teaching and learning.

In addition, the English Language Program will be unveiling its first contribution to Moodle. Come and hear about the new plugin developed through Nihon University grant funding! It will be released to the Moodle community via Moodle.org during the Moot!
